Introduction

Racing generates more than $1.3 billion for the West Australian economy. It sustains more than 10,000 full time jobs and involves more than 25,000 people as participants, employees and volunteers. The State's 50 race clubs are a focal point for communities and with most of them located in regional areas, almost half of the financial and participation benefits are felt in regional WA (IER report 2023).

Those impressive statistics on the vitality of racing are worthy of pride as we consider the changes we have navigated since Racing and Wagering Western Australia was created 20 years ago.

This season we held The TABtouch Western Trilogy, the world's first tri-code slot race series. The series, worth $5.5 million in total, featured The Quokka, the richest race ever run in Western Australia with $4 in prize money, along with The Nullarbor at $1 million and The Sandgroper at $500,000.

The race series generated $6 million of economic value for Western Australia and captured the interest of Australian racing fans. Its future is assured with boosted prize money in 2024.

In FY2023, the thoroughbred spring carnival was reimagined as The Pinnacles and extended to five weeks, with total prize money of $10.5 million. Our three Group 1 races rose in value to $1.5 million each and a new race, The Gold Rush, was added at the same level.

Major infrastructure works included new facilities at Kalgoorlie-Boulder Racing Club and the $25 million development to turn the Bunbury Racecourse into a top-class racing and training centre while also making improvements at harness venues and upgrading the Mandurah greyhound track.

In the animal welfare arena, we invested in two properties for our Greyhounds as Pets program to expand our immediate rehoming capacity while developing a new adoption headquarters.

Our Off the Track WA retraining program passed the milestone of rehoming 100 horses and we launched the Off the Track WA Community Fund to support horse-based education and therapy projects involving retired racehorses.

In addition, the new RWWA Research Fund supports projects to help horses thrive during their racing careers and beyond.

Most recently we created the Racing WA Community Fund to nurture positive change in areas linked to racing, where our presence is deeply felt.

Congratulations to the racing community for a highly active and successful year.

Ian Edwards
